What would you change to the content and structure of the curriculum?

More instruction and less reliance on syllabus.

I wish the faculty had more time to spend with students talking one on one. I feel they are overwhelmed.

I would rather read a text book then reading a book and writing a review on it.

I'd increase opportunities for the Tacoma program. This beautiful campus needs help from Olympia. I feel like a second-class student here, with opportunities denied because of the program. The Tacoma 'campus' feels more welcoming than Oly, but it needs support. More art opportunities, more faculty, more classes, more everything. I pay for it, please increase offerings.

I'd love more classes to choose from, with a couple of more instructors as well.

It would be good to have more classes to chose from in Tacoma.

It'd be nice to add some online classes to the mix.

Keeping evening students engaged and encouraged to participate more. The day students are more committed to attending class regularly and participating and contributing more to class work and class discussions.

Less busy-work paper writing/homework. I would rather write and edit, rewrite and evolve my thoughts. As it is there is no time for feedback before the next writing must be hacked out. It feels like it doesn't matter what the content is, it feels like a check-box situation. Give more time to evolve thoughts with faculty feedback. Also, the student spring fair is a nightmare of anxiety, stress, minimal oversight, unsupported group work and vaulted expectations. It should not be required.

Less group work, students don't have time to meet and causes lots of stress. I would like the chance to work n my own more often than having to work with people that do not show up.

Less homework

Less white.

Less writing and more presentations, more hands-on work, with intentional assignments.

More diversity in what is taught. Less repetitive in nature.

More focused lecture time and focused instruction.

More media

More specific readings and intentional lessons based around readings.

Offer more classes in Tacoma and add weekends

There absolutely needs to be a minimum of two instructors per class if grievances of mistreatment by staff to students are not fully addressed and resolved by administration. It would also be beneficial for the class setting to take a less traditional approach. It feels like its falling in to the same academic patterns as many other schools in the execution of curriculum. Becoming more and more traditional instead of innovative. Important to remember innovation is the root of this tree. Not continuing systemic patterns.
