Please help us improve Cultivating Voice by taking a few minutes to reflect on and share your experience in the class. Each year, Curriculum Club joins with Sandy to refine the Cultivating Voice class. To do this, we invite all students to offer insights, questions, and constructive feedback to aid us in improving the class for future generations of students. Please elaborate on your answers as thoroughly as you feel necessary.

Which readings did you find most helpful to understanding the philosophy and practice of tutoring, and why? Which were least helpful, and why?

How helpful were the written assignments (reflections, How I Write, My Tutoring Philosophy)? Any suggestions on how they could be improved, used, or supported?

How did you feel about not getting any faculty feedback on your reflections, How I Write, and My Tutoring Philosophy?

How helpful were the in-class lectures and activities (tutoring qualities, happy box, writing grid, questions workshop, peer review)? Which did you find most and least helpful, and why? Any suggestions on how they could be improved or better supported?

How helpful was seminar? Any suggestions on how it could be improved or better supported?

How helpful was the practicum, both meeting with a tutor one-on-one and tutoring trios? How was the balance between these two modes of practicum? Any suggestions on how it could be improved or better supported?

Overall, do you feel the class prepared you to tutor effectively?

Do you have any other comments, questions, or suggestions that Curriculum Club should keep in mind when revisiting the curriculum for next year? Was there something we should consider adding, removing, or altering for next year's class?
